

---

Brandon

Posted by misty - 2006/06/26 22:22

---

Look, I'm quite confused between wha and wes. went to look at Brandon on Sunday, tiny show but all seemed to be having a good time. I live in Norfolk, horse bucks when cantered but getting sorted. any suggestions where I can get started just to get her and me some experience. as an older rider haven't got tons of time.

=====

Re: Brandon

Posted by jjessky - 2007/06/30 17:43

---

Hi Misty.. Couldnt tell you the difference between the 2 either, as for the riding bit have you met tanya rowe just into suffolk, I live in Norfolk too and I have been going to her for about 2yrs now. Still pretty new to western riding though. Jill

=====

Re: Brandon

Posted by billywhiz - 2007/06/30 17:55

---

Get yourself over to Andrew Fox, he is based at March in Cambs. Lovely facilities and a really nice family run yard. Call them on 01354 650334.

=====

Re: Brandon

Posted by rosie - 2007/06/30 18:58

---

hi misty

i would suggest both Andrew Fox and David Deptford at Sovereign Quarter Horses both in March, Cambs. Their website and addresses, etc. are on the links page. Also why don't you look at www.wes-uk.com too.

rosie

=====

Re: Brandon

Posted by misty - 2007/06/30 20:57

---

Hi Guys

I was suprised to see these replies after a year!

Since then we have got a little qh who was supposed to be Husbands but I ride and have been to clinics at David's and a great time at Summer camp!

Our Arab is at this moment down at Tanya's and I have been having lessons with her for the last few weeks on JD (the qh)

Hope to go up to Lee's next week if it is not flooded and eventually enter a show at Brandon.

jjessky, whereabouts are you? I'm sort of between Attleborough and Wymondham.

Thanks for your replies.

=====

Re: Brandon

Posted by jjessky - 2007/07/01 11:55

---

Hi Misty, Glad to hear youre getting along ok.. I,m near Gt Yarmouth, it takes me about an hour to get to tanyas, its well worth the trip to use that lovely indoor school. Maybe we wil meet down there one day.

Think i have found my self a Q horse yearling so I might even see you at some shows in the future, lol I will be a nervous wreck,. You will easily recognise me, i will be in the corner shaking he he.

---

Re: Brandon

Posted by misty - 2007/07/01 21:20

---

I'm too old to start a youngster (although we took on a 3 yo unbacked Arab 3 years ago) and qh are just soo expensive. I think the one we have got, although older, was a good buy. She knows a lot more than me and hopefully we have got over her stropy act. Yes, hope to see you at Tanya's or one of the shows.

---

Re: Brandon

Posted by markrm - 2007/07/02 22:27

---

Hi Misty, we're based at Earlsway - I said hello to Rosie tonight when we were down to ride (I assume Rosie is your Arab!)

We might see you there some time.

---

Re: Brandon

Posted by misty - 2007/07/03 16:46

---

Hi, yes Rosie is our little baby (at six!). JD cut her foot getting in a tiz when Rosie went to the stable and I was going to take her to Lee's this weekend!
I am going to ride Rosie Thursday at 3pm. She seems quite big compared to JD but wasn't supposed to grow that big as she is from a racing stud. Could you see her racing LOL. I have made quite a few friends in these last months so hope I see you at Tanya's or a clinic or show.

---

Re:Brandon

Posted by vix_ann - 2008/03/13 19:09

---

the WHA provide games and pleasure classes ans WES just do reining and pleasure.