
Sponsored ride MK

Posted by K.T - 2008/05/11 20:41

Heres some photos of my Criollo at the "canter for a cure" sponsored ride today at Milton Keynes Equestrian Centre - it was a 12 mile ride.

Fantastic day!

K.T., looks like you had a super day for your sponsored ride with your Criollo!

Like you, Tommi (QH) and I with our friends Seren (Welsh Section D) and Joey were also on the charity pleasure ride circuit today, this time the Wansdyke Downland ride in Wiltshire in aid of Lackham & Chippenham RDA Groups - fantastic weather for a fantastic ride! We saw a few Criollos out too - and a mule having a great time.

Hi
Thanks for the reply!
Would love to see your photos!!

To attach to here you need to put them first on photo bucket - then double click the bottom line under photo then left click on here!

I dont use the Browse stuff on the botton just stick right HERE.on this blank bit.:silly:

Hi K.T. thanks for your help - here's hoping...!

Tommi (left) and Seren (right), enjoying some shade after the open downland of the Wandsdyke..

No, KT, it was hell.

:evil:

gotta get me a job sometime... spending FAR too much time riding in good company in glorious British weather in beautiful countryside.

sigh.

:laugh:

Many thanks go to the RDA charity ride though, well organised and Tommi even chatted up the Burger van staff at the end so he got himself some prime grazing in peace while his mom ate.

...I seem to recall he also got the latter end of my veggie burger - now Tommi's expression having just burnt his tongue on a rather sizzling veggie burger-in-a-bun is something I REALLY wished I'd caught on camera!:laugh:

Hi

I do remember seeing photographers up on the Wansdyke but don't know whether they were official, certainly don't remember seeing any photograph displays in the start field but was somewhat more engrossed in my veggie burger!! :P Have pm'd you the secretary's nos, they should be able to help. Ahh, sweet memories of long rides in sunshine (what IS this thing!!!)

Private message - look left under your login/out button, you should see a link below that button with an envelope and a message notice! Not dim, took me ages to notice it too!
