
New Rotating Top Banner...

Posted by admin - 2007/03/13 22:22

I'd like some feedback on the new top banner format. It is designed to highlight articles and events on the site but also an avenue for advertisers.

Looks good to me - the whole site is very professionally done anyway and a frequently changing banner should only encourage people to have a look at new items/ads 8)

Thanks markrm, that's the purpose... keep you all up to date and let newbie's get quick access to stuff that the rest of us have already seen/read.

Good point Admin - it does enable new people to see what has been going on and which topics are popular. I am off to put my new WS banner on my website - lol.

All done - I have put it on our home page and the links page and I will put it on our new website once I have finished building it. (it so goes with the colour scheme of our new site!)

As you're not the king of flash Admin does this mean that we should be calling you the magnificent moo :D :D

Just for the record moo.fx is a super lightweight (3 kb) javascript effects library.

No I'm not a smart ar*e, you can find anything out with Google ;)

Only a man could get away with a nickname "The Magnificent Moo". If you tried to apply that to a woman, she would probabaly either deck you, or collapse in a heap because obviously her bum does look big! Having said that, I do respond to the name "Hell Bitch" and no casualties so far. :D
