

---

Reining UK

Posted by CatG - 2007/09/17 23:36

---

We had a highly entertaining weekend on 15th and 16th September with a clinic with David Gray on Saturday followed by a Show on Sunday which was purely reining. We held it at Tantramar Stud and David was the judge. All the classes were free and we did rosettes to 4th place with loads of feedback from the judge. The weather was absolutely glorious and the company was great.

Reining UK is a club we have started to get people into reining, who can then progress onto the WES and BR or AQHA and NRHA stuff. We will be doing more of these mini shows throughout the winter. For more info see www.reininguk.com

---

Re:Reining UK

Posted by bonnie - 2007/09/18 09:06

---

The clinic and show held last weekend was not only great fun but a real good experience as what to expect in the show pen, especially for four riders all with new mounts , who all done really well all going home with ribbons and a smile.!

The show was held with all the precisian of a "real" show, and riders were all talked through their mistakes or problems with David, and got a second chance to run again..very handy for some of us.

Every one enjoyed their selves in a really nice atmosphere ,look forward to the next time.. Bonnie and Glanville

---

Re:Reining UK

Posted by Sally House - 2007/09/18 10:07

---

Saturday 15th September was an excellent clinic with David Gray.

Sunday 16th September was the first Reining UK Show day and the nerves started to show! It was run with a real show atmosphere and after each class there was time for feedback and advice from David, which was well needed! especially for me. It was such a good experience for all of us. We all had a lovely two days thanks to Cat and David for hosting it and thanks to everybody who was there for your company which made it a great weekend with great atmosphere.

Sally

---

Re:Reining UK

Posted by billywhiz - 2007/09/18 11:40

---

Sounds like a good mix for grass roots reining.

Well done

---