
Tanya's clinic

Posted by misty - 2007/11/24 22:05

Rosie went to Tanya's on Monday after not being ridden for ages. Today I rode her at the clinic. I know it doesn't sound much but I am so chuffed. She has never been with a number of stange horses and then to try the trail in the afternoon. (O.K. I know it was a bit of a mess) was great. From the chat going on I'm sure everybody else had a great time as well so look out for the show on 8th December.

It was good fun today - glad to see you enjoyed it, but what's this about my horse being strange?:laugh::lol:
The xmas show should be fun as well - am looking forward to it

Who said she was strange? Telling my o/h about it tonight he remembered Tank and said what a good horse she was, strange?

I thought you said Rosie was good despite being ridden with as number of strange horses ;) Strange riders maybe, but the horses were ok :lol: :lol:

I had a lovely day but when I got home it shows that my brain wasn't in gear!

I'm just getting a bit worried about how 'strange' it will be at the show!

Will I be disqualified if I forget my tinsel?

Oh, and do you know what time it starts as it isn't on the shedule?
