
New Continental Saddle for sale never used!

Posted by Angie - 2008/03/31 15:30

Isn't a hassle saddles! I bought a new Pullmans Continental saddle 16" flexi tree semi quarter bars and it doesn't fit never used. I paid a lot but will sell for £1,200 or thereabouts, very fed up nice saddle what a shame. I am in Surrey and won't just post it hoping for the cash. It will come with a 10yr guarantee too of course. I have research treeless, Parelli, hand made, and feel exhausted till I spoke to an English company who are now in the process of a prototype western which is light weight, safety stirrups and can be yes, altered when your horse changes shape, not for some time though! in the meanwhile I am riding in an english dressage, not quite right for western! so if you are looking for an extremely nice expensive top range saddle email me.....and I will have to wait...

The English company have just told me they are overwhelmed with work so have shelved the western prototype till the summer so don't hold your breath probably won't happen now till winter! shame as it should not take long to complete it now and it is WOW very comfortable will let everyone know when it happens....My continental saddle seems to fit my youngster better than it did so might not need to sell it for straight away and might just wait till this English company come up with a new concept one...saddles are a nightmare...
