My dad owns a haulage company, and I remember him telling me in January of this year, that he was having to prebook his trucks and trailers in at the testing centre six weeks in advance....!

That's why we've got a 3 1/2 tonner!

In our experience that's a normal time-frame for plating. It's a real pain.

I've had 2 7.5 tonne boxes tested this year. This first one had a 6 week booking time. The other we went on standby for the first cancellation and still waited over 4 weeks! So I'm guessing that's a pretty standard time frame.
