Well decided to take the SF out last Monday- entered her in at a local show- which hosted youngstock class & Coloured in hand class. She,s just 2- only ever been to one show LAST year- which was BApS affiliated- but she did do rather well! Won the yearling filly class- then won the yearling championship. Then went on to win Reserve best Female in show! Quite a feat for a yearling! Due to 2 small ops she had on her back leg- we didnt bother anymore- untill Monday! Practiced in hand with a loveley American Western Halter Aunty Jude so kindly sent us last year- but on the day I thought just a wee bit too big-so showed her in an English show bridle with a small nathe bit- which she gagged & spat- she HATED it!Decided that she was NOT gonna be a good girl- refused to stand for the judge- then refused POINT BLANK to move in the walk-trot up-I was soo embarrassed!:blush: Still we managed a mere 5th & 6th-and a stern word from the judge to go home and teach her show training-so that she can win the awards she deserves! She loved her though!

So for Aunty Lou & Aunty Jude.....Georgie- otherwise known as the Sexy filly!

Ahhh it's my "little" SF.....:kiss:

She looks great Trish, don't worry, the tail will grow back and she will learn to go forwards - it's not the show training she needs, it's the outings!! You will have to go showing more often (oh, what a chore!!!)

I told Aunty SP about her outing - I think SP's reaction was something like - "...refuse to go forward? I'll give her refuse to go forward, now in my day....."

Can't wait to see her out and about again in western attire - and you too.

Its all sooo exciting....she looks amazing, a credit to you guys. I can't wait to see what the year brings for her.

We had a chestnut blanket spot out of our mare by Riker this year...Carrera...She is going to be another stunner! Pics on web site very soon!

Big hugs to SF
